

Saturday Sustainability Talk

Developing EmergeSense!

An exploration of collaborative decision-making and authentic presence as a means to grow resilient community/organization!

Saturday, September 10, 2011 at 1:00PM

Things are always changing. Do we in community or organization have a dynamic, authentic responsive way to address this fluidity of life? We'll explore Sociocracy (aka Holacracy or Dynamic Governance) - a decision-making methodology that mines the organizational voice in an effective, efficient and responsive manner.

The need for decision-making (Governance) grows from the daily interactions of the group. So it stands to reason that the embodied "culture" of the group is the ground from which the need for decisions springs and as such will affect the nature of any governance process. Therefore a healthy "culture" coupled with integrated holistic governance process sets the stage for the emergence of a dynamic, authentic, responsive and resilient community or organization.
