

Ahimsa Village
Friday Night Sustainability Series Program

Sustainable Landscaping
Friday, December 12, 2008 at 6:30PM

Learn about the philosophy and practice of sustainable landscaping. Topics will include promoting the landscape as a system to be used in conjunction with the home, rainwater collection, xeriscaping, greywater recycling, composting, and vegetative roofs as part of the garden. Bring your ideas and questions to discuss.

Program by Jason R. Grottini, environmental scientist at Matson & Associates and founder of EarthW.O.R.M. International, a small sustainable development/engineering consulting firm in State College. Jason has research experience in environmental pollution control and green engineering practices. He has performed research on vegetative roof systems, stream bank restoration, and has designed several models for alternative waste water treatment systems for educational purposes.

Light refreshments at 6:30pm, followed by program. Please RSVP to magicjubilee@yahoo.com, 814-355-0850 by December 7 if you plan to join us. Suggested donation $5 benefits the Ahimsa Education Committee.

Directions: Address: 4022 S. Eagle Valley Rd, 16844, From State College area: Take Rt. 322 West, do not exit for Rt. 220 / I-80. Stay on 322 until you pass State College and go over SkyTop Mountain to Alt. Rt. 220. Take Alt Rt. 220 North, ~ 6 miles to Ahimsa Village Community, on your left.
